

JOB-READY SKILLS WORKSHOP · COMING TO YOUR COLLEGE

Nobody hires a marksheet.

They hire what you can show them.

Marksheet se naukri nahi milti. Kaam dikhana padta hai.

WHAT THIS WORKSHOP IS ABOUT

One day, one room, one man who has been a physicist, an artist, a writer and a freelancer. You walk out with one of two things — a completely different way of thinking about work, or projects real enough to put in front of an employer. Possibly both.

WHO IS IN THE ROOM

PHYSICIST

ARTIST

FREELANCER

One man has been all four.

He has chased more dreams than most people let themselves have — and he still freelances, a lot, which means he is paid for what he can do rather than for what a certificate says he studied. On the day, that is the whole lesson.

WHAT THE DAY HOLDS

Stories will be told. Songs will be sung. Work will be built.

ACT I

Stories

Real ones, told out loud — from a man who has lived through more dreams than most people let themselves have. The ones that worked, and the ones that did not.

ACT II

Songs

Yes, songs. Some things land in a chorus that never land in a lecture — and a room that has sung together listens differently afterwards.

ACT III

Work

Then you build. You leave having made something you can show — or having seen something you cannot unsee.

Nothing staged, no motivational act. Something real and good is going to happen in that room — and you will know it when it does.

WHAT YOU WALK OUT WITH

Two endings. You get at least one.

ENDING A

A different mind

You stop asking "what job will they give me?" and start asking "what can I make that somebody will pay for?" That one question changes the next ten years.

ENDING B

A portfolio

You leave with projects — finished, real, yours — that you can open in front of an employer or a client and say: I made this.

Not a lecture you sit through

Not a motivational act

Not a marksheet in disguise

WHO IT IS FOR

Class 11 & 12

before a stream decides everything for you

Graduates

who have the paper and are still waiting

College students

before the degree ends and the question starts

Anyone stuck

working, between things, or tired of waiting to be picked

AFTER THE WORKSHOP

The only way into the two-month program.

The two-month Job-Ready Skills Program is open only to people who attend this workshop. There is no other way in — not later, not by paying more. The workshop is the door.

WHAT IT COSTS

₹299 – ₹299 = ₹0

Every rupee of it is adjusted against the two-month program — and only people who attend the workshop can join that program. If you continue, the day cost you nothing.

WHEN

Sealed. Every college gets its own day, and its date is sealed — told only to the students of that college who registered.

WHERE

Your college — the workshop comes to your campus.

REGISTRATION

Open while your college is on the tour.

FEE

₹299 by UPI — any app. Adjusted in full against the two-month program fee.

RECEIPT

Emailed the moment you confirm your payment. We check every payment against our UPI statement and confirm your seat on WhatsApp.
